believe do—some of them we know to be excellent.

We have stated the above facts because they are facts. We believe we can save our readers a large amount of money annually by placing good patent medicines before them. And we would have them understand that when we do so, we are not humbugging any more than their family physician who visits them, and we have the evidence and the witnesses to prove it. We are conscientious in this matter.

The Sensations Of Hanging.

Yesterday several gentlemen were speaking of capital punishment, when Mr. J. L. McNeely, one of the most prosperous farmers in Pulaski county, remarked: "Gentlemen, so far as the punishment is concerned, hanging does not amount to anything. I was hung once until I was insensible, and the feeling could scarcely be called pain." The bystanders thought that he was joking. "I am in earnest," he continued. "In 1865, just at the close of the war, robbers came to my house in search of my money. As a precaution against such visitors I had given two watches and $600 in gold to a trusty colored woman to keep for me until times improved. I was lying in bed, crippled. Several men entered the room, and, without saying anything put a rope around my neck and began to pull. I told them that if they were going to hang me to wait until I could get my crutch, so that I could walk to the hanging place. They took me out on the gallery, and, throwing the rope over a cross-beam, asked me for my money. I told them that I had none. They drew me up. For a moment I experienced a slight choking sensation, and then I became insensible. When I became conscious, after being taken down, I was sitting on the steps. The sensations while regaining consciousness were very much like those experienced during a nightmare."

PAPA—"That picture shows the story of Prometheus and the vulture that fed on his liver. Every day the vulture devoured it and every night it grew for him to eat again." Sympathetic child—"Poor, dear old vulture! How sick he must have been of liver every day."

"Hi! where did you get them trousers?" asked an Irishman of a man who happened to be passing with a remarkably short pair of trousers. "I got them where they grew," was the indignant reply. "Then, by my conscience," said Pat, "you've pulled them a year too soon!"

A STRANGER took his watch to the watchmaker to have it repaired. After a few minutes' work the watchmaker handed it back with the remark that the damages were $2. "What was the matter with it?" asked the stranger. "There was a hair in it." "Was that all? You might have found a hair mattress in it for $2."

A PHILADELPHIA lady is so opposed to anything suggestive of card-playing that she will not have even a deal-table in her kitchen. And she wants to be translated, like Elijah, so that she may escape "shuffling off" this mortal coil. And she can't bear to hear any allusion to Gabriel's "last trump," and won't have a "tray" in the house.

LOVE AND PAIN.

"I love you, little sweetheart,
He in tender accents said.
"And I love you, too," she answered,
As she bent her pretty head.
And the stars looked down from heaven
On the charming tete-a-tete,
As the pair of youthful lovers
Gently swung upon the gate.
"Yes I love you," she softly murmured,
Looking up at him again.
"Holy mackerel! Gee Moses!"
Answered he, in direct pain.
For, alas! we never know the Ingenuity of fate,
And love that betrays us often,
To a mashed thumb in the gate.

"WISCONSIN GIRL"—Your poem commencing—

Canst thou remember, my darling,
A time when you thought of, but me,
When our joys and hopes were recounted
To each beneath the old trying-tree?
has been received, but we shall decline to answer until after looking up the laws of Wisconsin concerning breach of promise.
In regard to the last stanza—
Should you o'er the Stygian river
First rest 'neath the Life-giving Tree,
Will you pause in its shadow, my darling,
And wait in the silence for me?

we can only say that if in case you are a trip or two behind on the ferry it will be a pleasure to sit on the bank till you arrive. Anything that we can do to please poets—outside of printing their efforts—will be cheerfully attended to.
